About us

This is a start-up business that creates video content for corporate companies, and influencers, with the additional service of social media, and marketing support. We work with clients to turn their ideas into fresh original content that will engage their audience and meet the marketing goals. In the media industry, where tight timelines are common, we ensure that we are organised and responsive, from beginning of the brief to the end of the project.

The first director has 20 years commercial experience growing businesses from 0- 100 staff and coaching them to achieve high results and the second one has a MA in Directing Film and over 10 years of editing, and film industry experience, with success in content creation ranging from 3m views on YouTube to festival awards.
